WORKS OF ART DISCOVERED IN CYPRUS.

Greek Dissatisfaction at their Exportation.

Much attention has lately been drawn to some important discoveries made in the Island of Cyprus by a foreign-born American citizen. It will be seen by an article which we translate from a Greek journal published in Turkey, the Neologos, that the Christian subjects of the Sultan bitterly regret the removal from their country of so many valuable historic and antiquarian remains. The Greeks in Turkey are even now as little able to prevent the depredations of foreign collectors as were their fathers in the time of Lord Elgin. It appears, however, that even the Turks are now awake to the importance of retaining the wealth of antiquities which the country may still possess, and that the Vizier has published an order restraining their exportation. It need not be remarked that the story about the American Government having made an offer for the purchase of the collection in question is untrue:

The Island of Cyprus, so lavishly endowed by nature, and judged worthy of old to be the seat of the mother of Cupid, contains in its bosom precious archæological memorials bearing witness to the different vicissitudes of the island. What is beautiful never lacks possessors. Assyrians, Phœnicians, Egyptians, Persians, Greeks, Romans, and others, have all crossed over to this island, and have left traces of their passage. The district hides within itself an entire museum, one which, if it ever sees the light as a whole, and is investigated by those who are skilled in antiquarian research, will illustrate many obscure parts of history. Not long since the Imperial Government of Turkey, seeing that both on the island and elsewhere in the Empire, many ancient relics were passing into foreign hands, while the East was being stripped of the most beautiful marks of its glory, resolved to put an end to the plunder of its antiquities, and by an order of the Vizier to this effect shortened the long arms of the imitators of Elgin. But to return to the Island of Cyprus. Before the publication of the Vizier's order, to which reference has been made, a learned Italian residing at Larnaki, in Cyprus, M. Censola, who, having distinguished himself in the civil war in America, had become a naturalized American citizen, and is now Consul of the United States upon the island, having expended, as we are informed, about 3,000 lire in making excavations, got together a large and curious collection of works of art, most of them in the tombs, of which at least 8,000 were uncovered, and in the Temple of Venus at Golgos. These works of art are as follows: 1,200 ancient Greek, Phœnician and Roman vessels of glass; 4,000 Phœnician, Assyrian, Egyptian and Greek vases; 1,400 Greek, Roman and Byzantine lamps; 425 brazen utensils of all kinds, strigils, bowls, brooch-pins, etc.; 96 Phœnician, Greek and Cypriote inscriptions; 204 stone statues of various sizes from the Temple of Venus; 709 stone heads from the same temple; 320 votive offerings, etc., from the same temple; 130 gold cylinders, canthari, etc. Since, as has been mentioned, the discovery of these works of art by M. Censola took place before the publication of the Vizier's order, and consequently they are his private property, the Imperial Government offered 6,000 lire for their purchase, which M. Censola declined. The French Government was in treaty for the collection when the outbreak of the war cut short the negotiations. The American Government outbid both, and has offered 10,000 lire.

The spectacle of such an auction sale of our treasures of the fine arts, and that under our own eyes, is a sad one, but we console ourselves with the hope that in future the commands of the Government will be faithfully observed, and that our works of art will no longer travel to distant lands, but that if anywhere in this classic land there is buried a diamond belonging to us, it will be placed in a native casket, and will shed its radiance under the sun that saw the birth of and enlightened those great artists of our past history.

FATAL TESTIMONY.

A Contumacious Witness—Incident of a Murder Trial.

The witness of a recent shooting affray at Memphis, upon whose testimony the State depended chiefly in its prosecution of the offenders, is a man named Perkins, who, if his strange, haggard appearance and spiritless manner excited some surprise in the Criminal Court before which he was summoned, created still more astonishment by his complete refusal to relate what he had seen of the murder under investigation. "I know that I shall be committed to jail for contempt," said he, in answer to the Magistrate's remonstrance and threats, "but I will not testify in any case of this kind." After vainly and not unkindly pressing for some explanation of such unexpected contumacy, the Court was compelled to commit the refractory witness to a cell in the jail, where he was subsequently visited by a reporter of the Avalanche and was persuaded to give the following history of his whole ruined life: When he was in his eighteenth year, he says a room-mate and fellow-student with him at a collegiate boarding school—a young man slightly his senior, and to whom he was warmly devoted in a friendship like that of David Copperfield for Streeforth—had a quarrel with another student, which, although a trifling matter at first, matured to the bitterest enmity. One night, when Perkins and his friend were in their room together, this student, stimulated to recklessness by drinking, forced an entrance there, and became so insulting, that a fight ensued. Before the horrified room-mate could separate the combatants, the insulted student had shot his enemy through the brain with a pistol caught from the mantel, and the other inmates of the house reached the scene only in time to witness the death of the unfortunate invader of the apartment, and consign his remorseful murderer to the hands of the police. In the trial following, political and family influence was directed implacably against the prisoner, whose bosom friend, to his unspeakable anguish, was compelled to testify that he had witnessed the fatal shooting. Upon this evidence, principally, of course, the jury found a verdict of willful murder, and the unhappy young man thus branded was hung for his crime. Driven nearly frantic by his involuntary share in the dreadful fate of his friend, Perkins went down on his knees beside that friend's coffin and "took a solemn oath never again to testify in any case where his testimony might possibly cause the extreme penalty of the law to be inflicted upon any person." This oath he has kept religiously through all the years which its tragic cause has made miserable to him; and, although of excellent family connection and possessing some property, his life, since the execution of his friend, has been but a career of such dissipation as he has sought for distraction from remorse. His repeated answer to all remonstrance against his present course is: "I will not testify; I tell you gentlemen, though you keep me in jail for life, I will not! I will not!" And in prison he remains.

ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY MILLIONS.

The Sir Francis Drake Estate—A Fortune for Somebody—The Tennessee Drakes.

The Bowling Green Democrat published the following article a few months ago: An interesting piece of intelligence has been upon the air in Bowling Green for some weeks, but we have hesitated to give it publicity through the columns of the Democrat lest it might prove too good to be true. We have taken some pains to get at the bottom of the glad news, and we find that there is really a sound foundation. It's all about an English fortune coming to heirs in the United States, some of whom are our neighbors and dear friends. This is the story:

"About eighty-five years ago Sir Francis Drake, of England, left a large estate to his American heirs. The property has remained since then unclaimed, the heirs themselves being definitely unknown. Some fifteen years ago information of the existence of the unclaimed fortune came to the family of Drakes in Kentucky, Middle Tennessee and Virginia, but no clear steps were taken to establish their claim, and so the matter quietly rested. Some ten months ago the subject gained new life, an investigation was put on foot, and the lines of descent were traced to the great ancestor. The investigation has led, with apparent certainty, to the establishment of the fact that the Drakes of Middle Tennessee and their near kin are the true heirs, and that there are unclaimed in the Bank of England $120,000,000 to be divided among them.

"Steps are being taken to bring this whole matter to a definite result, and most gratifying information on the subject has been conveyed to the claimants within the past few weeks. These facts we gather from one of the heirs in this city; for we rejoice to state that, if the chain of evidence, now apparently complete, shall be unbroken, we shall have several heirs to the English fortune in the very midst of us. Mrs. H. D. Glenn, who resides in the vicinity of Oakland Station, in this county, and her three sons, H. D. Glenn, T. J. Glenn and E. O. Glenn, of this city, are the direct and near descendants of Sir Francis Drake. This fact is regarded as indisputable. Mrs. Glenn is one of the oldest and closest representatives of the original family in this country, and several other members of the family reside in Todd county, in this State. Certainly this is very gratifying intelligence. There is not a more estimable family in this county than the Glenns. The gentlemen of the name who are engaged in business here are upright, intelligent, industrious citizens, and are universally esteemed. They will become very rich in the division of the English estate, their proportion ranging from $300,000 to $400,000 each. Sincerely do we hope that all they have such reasonable grounds to hope for will be realized, and that we shall see them soon enjoying the prosperity which is now foretokened for them."

We hear that the Tennessee Drakes have employed General W. B. Bates of this city, and J. P. Benjamin of London, to prosecute their claims as heirs of the great navigator.

CONSULTING THE DOCTOR.

[From the Atlantic Monthly, for March.]

A queer discoloration about my forehead. Query, a bump? Cannot remember any. Might have got it against bed-post or something while asleep. Very unpleasant to look so.

I must consult somebody, and it is nothing more than fair to give our young doctor a chance. Here goes for Dr. Benjamin Franklin.

There were Opthalmoscope and Rhinoscopes and Otoscopes and Laryngoscopes and Stethoscopes; and Thermometers and Spirometers and Dananiometers and Sphygmometers and Plexiometers; and Probes and Probangs and all sorts of frightful inquisitive exploring contrivances; and scales to weigh you in, and tests and balances and pumps and electro-magnets and magneto-electric machines; in short, apparatus for doing everything but turn you inside out.

Dr. Benjamin sat me down before his one window and began looking at me with such a superhuman air of sagacity, that I felt like one of those open-breasted clocks which make no secret of their inside arrangements, and almost thought he could see through me as one sees through a shrimp or a jelly fish. First he looked at the place inculpated, which had a sort of greenish-brown color, with his naked eyes, with much corrugation of forehead and fearful concentration of attention; then through a pocket-glass which he carried. Then he drew back a space, for a perspective view. Then he made me put out my tongue and laid a slip of blue paper on it, which turned red and scared me a little. Next he took my wrist; but instead of counting my pulse in the old fashioned way, he fastened a machine to it that marked all the beats on a sheet of paper—for all the world like a scale of the heights of mountains, say from Mount Tom up to Chimborazo and then down again, and up again, and so on. In the meantime he asked me all sorts of questions about myself and about my relatives, whether we had been subject to this and that malady, until I felt as if we must some of us have had more or less of them and could not feel quite sure whether Elephantiasis and Beribert and Progressive Locomotor Ataxy did not run in the family.

HYDRATE OF CHLORAL.

[From the Scientific American.]

The hydrate of chloral, which, in 1869, cost eighty dollar a pound, so that each sleep produced by it could be reckoned at one dollar, is now advertised in the list of a German chemical factory at about two dollars a pound. Such an enormous reduction in the price of a chemical product in so short a time has rarely occurred. Perhaps the only parallel case is metallic sodium, which, a few years ago, could not be had for two hundred dollars a pound, but can now be made for twenty-five cents. According to Dr. Richardson, the secret use of chloral in England has become so great that the victims must be put in the same class as the opium eaters. In proof of the enormous consumption, he states that during the last year and a half four dealers had sold forty tons—sufficient to give narcotic doses to 36,000,000 people—in other words, every person in England could have had one good sound sleep out of the amount sold. In reference to the maximum dose it would be safe to take, Dr. Richardson puts the amount at one hundred and twenty grains; he regards one hundred and eighty grains as likely to prove fatal. He also warns against the gradual increase of the dose, as its effect upon the organism is just the opposite of opium; the system, in fact, becomes more sensitive the longer it is used.

FEARFUL EXPERIENCES OF BUFFALO HUNTERS.

The Waterville (Kansas) Telegraph tells a terrible tale of suffering concerning F. M. Brower, the survivor of a party of buffalo hunters frozen to death in Phillips county, in November last. Mr. Brower was badly frozen on the morning of Sunday, November 17, when his four companions went for help, and were all frozen to death. On Wednesday following, Mr. Brower was found by two hunters, McMurrer and Payne. A fire was built, and Payne remained with Brower and McMurrer went for help. Arriving at the house of F. W. Wagner, on Cedar Creek, nine miles away, McMurrer was so badly frozen that he could not return, but Wagner and two others started out on Friday. They failed to find Brewer till Saturday. He was found helpless, laying with his feet at a fire that Payne had succeeded in keeping up. Neither he nor Payne had anything to eat since the storm came on, more than a week before. He was taken to a house, and not many days after his feet were both amputated. He passed through Waterville the other day, on his way to Fox Lake, Wis., in charge of his brother.

MONEY CANNOT BUY IT!

FOR SIGHT IS PRICELESS, BUT THE DIAMOND SPECTACLES will preserve it.

We now offer a Glass to the public which is pronounced by the most celebrated opticians of the world to be the most perfect, natural artificial help to the human eye ever known.

They are ground under our own supervision, at our own manufactory in New Haven, and are so constructed that the Core or Centre of the Lense comes directly in front of the eye, producing a Clear and Distinct Vision, as in the Natural Healthy Sight, and prevents all unpleasant sensations, such as a Glimmering and Wavering of Sight, Dizziness, etc., peculiar to all others in use.

These Glasses are manufactured from Minute Crystal Pebbles, melted together, and derive their name, "Diamond," on account of their Hardness and Brilliancy.

These Glasses are mounted in the finest manner, at our own manufactory, in all styles of Gold, Silver, Steel, Rubber and Shell Frames, of the Best Quality.

Their durability cannot be surpassed, and their finish is such as will suit the most fastidious.

For sale by the principal Opticians and Jewelers throughout the country. Manufactured by J. E. SPENCER & CO., Practical Opticians, New York.

For sale only by THOMAS KENT, Dealer in Watches, Diamonds and Jewelry, No. 12 C street, Virginia City, Nevada. fe28 1y

THE NEWS.

The Investigating Committee into the alleged irregularities in the New York Custom-house have succeeded in exposing frauds, but they belong to a system inaugurated long ago. The skirts of the Administration seem to be clear.

Troops have been called for to suppress the Kuklux in Alabama. They will be supplied.

The fate of the leader of the gang of the Lowry outlaws in North Carolina is still in doubt; but it is generally supposed that he is dead.

Horace Greeley causes himself to be telegraphed again, showing why he refused to sign the call of the National Republican Committee for a National Convention. He seems to be afraid that somebody would steal something and not report to him.

Some of the proposed Civil Service Reform provisions are receiving hard blows in Congress.

The new snow blockade seems to have been opened again. We will have mails to-day from the East, probably.

Devine, "the Chicken," under sentence of death in San Francisco, still furnishes readable paragraphs to our San Francisco telegraphic reporter.

ALLEGED BRIBERY IN KANSAS.

Senator Caldwell has taken occasion, on the floor of the Senate, to denounce the charges of bribery brought against him in his election as Senator by the Kansas Legislature. He had, he said, "positive assurances that no attempt would be made to prove that any member of the Legislature had been bribed to vote for him. The whole proceedings were instigated by malice and designed for political purposes. The State Senate had refused to send a report to Washington, and the House had declined to ask the United States Senate to order an investigation; but as his character had been assailed, he would not stand upon forms. He shrank from no scrutiny. He hurled back the charges against him with scorn and indignation. At some future time he would expose the outrage as it deserved. In the meantime he asked a suspension of the judgment of the Senate." Senator Pomeroy, colleague of Caldwell, said he had been included in the charges of corruption in his election in 1867, and asked that an Investigating Committee be appointed to ascertain the facts, but the Senate laid his resolution on the table. Thus the matter stands at present; but it may be called up in the Senate at any time. Senator Caldwell is understood to be a wealthy man, and it is quite probable that his friends used money to secure his election. But Caldwell took his seat as Senator on the 4th of March of last year, and it is a little singular that the charges of bribery were not brought forward until more than a year after his election. If no official report of bribery reaches Washington, after the dispatches sent broadcast over the land from Topeka, stating that bribery had positively been proven on the part of Caldwell, then we shall consider the whole movement against Caldwell to have been instigated in the interests of "black-mail." Men who levy "black-mail" are regarded, the world over, as more venal than men who purchase questionable cattle in open market.

WHAT PRESIDENT WOODHULL SAYS.

Victoria Woodhull recently made a speech in Washington. She said, among other things, that "Christianity had been preached long enough," and that she wanted to see a woman's rights Christianity preached hereafter. A portion of her speech is reported as follows:

I here and now impeach the clergy of the United States [great and continued applause] as dishonest and hypocritical, since the best of them acknowledge that they do not dare to preach the whole truth, for if they should, they would have to preach to empty seats—an admission sufficiently damnable to consign them to the contempt of the world and to the hell of which they prate so knowingly, but whose location they have not been able to determine.

This war of the people had to be made through the churches. To-day, Congressmen said to me, "Now, Woodhull, just be quiet, and let's bridge this over for a year or so, and you'll come out all right." Matt Carpenter said to-day, "If you are to have your rights at all, you will get them through the Republican party." We'll have them through no party but that of the people. I am going to begin a revolution—a bloody Paris Commune revolution, [applause,] and I mean to stump every State from Maine to California to accomplish it. [Great applause.]

During her lecture, speaking of her interview with Senator Carpenter, Mrs. Woodhull said:

I told Matt Carpenter to-day, when he told me that I should be imprisoned because I spoke so disrespectfully of the Constitution, that I hated it; that I would spit upon it; I would spit on Congress. It is a stench in the nostrils of the people, and to overthrow it I told him I would raise a revolution. That's why I come before the people, and I mean to succeed. [Applause.] He said I would find myself in Fortress Monroe. I wish I could put all in Congress there. [Laughter.]

THE 'POSSUM POLICY.

The Boston Post is a thoroughly Democratic journal. It is not radical, but claims to be consistent. It is horrified at what is now known as the 'Possum Policy, and will have nothing to do with it. It is now engaged in denouncing it with a degree of vigor and ability seldom brought to the discussion of political topics. In a recent issue it says: "But what makes the proposition at once as offensive as it is impracticable, is that its very basis consists of the assumption that the Democrats are too corrupt to name any candidate for the support of reform Republicans—albeit the latter adopt the principles and solicit the support of those whom they practically stigmatize before the country. Not only is there nothing like equality and mutual respect in a plan of such sort, but it is an imputation too gross to be tolerated in the form in which it is sought to be made. Finally, passivism is in truth a staggering blow dealt at political integrity and virtue; it would be a shameless advertisement that thereafter no principles were worth maintaining with a steadfast singleness of mind and purpose, after it could be shown that their cowardly abandonment promised even the illusion of a present advantage."

In allusion to the recent decision of the Supreme Court of this State admitting colored children into the public schools of Ormsby county, the Eureka Sentinel says;

There is, however, a question of constitutional law involved in the decision under notice, which admits of a very different view to that taken by the majority of the Court. We shall reserve our say on this branch of the subject, however, for a future article.

It is a matter of profound regret that the editor of the Sentinel was not consulted by the Supreme Bench prior to the rendering of the decision which that gentleman has discovered to be unconstitutional, and upon which he reserves his "say" for a "future article." If not too late, we would suggest that the decision be recalled until the editor of the Sentinel can be heard from.

A Paris journalist has compared France to a bottle of champagne, of which M. Thiers is the cork.

Alexis thinks that Miss Mollie Morton, daughter of Dr. Morton, of Little Rock, is the handsomest girl in America.

"George Eliot" says that there are men who don't mind being kicked blue if they can only get talked about.

BOOK DAY.

As was noted in our local columns of yesterday, it is desirable that those prepared to contribute books to the Virginia School Library should make their donations before to-morrow evening. Thus far but about one hundred volumes have been contributed. This is due to no reluctance on the part of our people to send in their odd volumes, but to negligence. A plan has been devised to relieve them of the trouble of sending their contributions to the depository at Mr. Eaves' jewelry store. At 12 o'clock to-day a wagon will be started through the streets—probably two or three of them—and every dwelling and office will be visited. Some time during the afternoon every house will be visited. We call upon Mr. Hatch, whose house maintains an order wagon, to arrange with Messrs. Hampton, Kelly, Demling, Kennedy & Mallon, Medin, Mitchell, Strouse, Brown & Aurich and others whose wagons are continually seen upon the streets, to give the children an hour of their time this afternoon. Let a wagon be given to the several streets of the city, from G to Howard. The result will be two or three wagon-loads of books. As our citizens will be called upon, we would suggest, to facilitate collection, that they withdraw from their libraries before 12 o'clock to-day such volumes as they are willing to contribute, and have them in readiness to pass into the collecting wagons. There is no reason why five or six hundred valuable volumes should not be collected this afternoon. We call upon Mr. Hatch, who has a large wagon and a number of small children, to organize the collection programme.

It is evident that Japan is fully awake to the idea of progress and improvement. The following letter is a copy of one addressed to a gentleman prominently connected with the cause of education in San Francisco, and serves to show the value which the Japanese attach to the important field of education:

Legation of Japan for the United States of America, Washington, D. C., February 3, 1872.

Dear Sir: Having been especially commissioned, as a part of my duty in this country, to look after the educational affairs of Japan, and feeling personally a great interest in the progress in that Empire, I desire to obtain from you a letter of advice and information bearing upon this subject, to assist my countrymen in their efforts to become instrumental in advancing civilization in the East. In a general way, I wish to have your views in reference to the elevation of the condition of Japan, intellectually, morally and physically; but the particular points to which I invite your attention are as follows:

The effects of education—

First—Upon the material prosperity of a country.

Second—Upon its commerce.

Third—Upon its agricultural and industrial interest.

Fourth—Upon the moral, social and physical condition of the people.

Fifth—Its influences upon the laws and Government.

Information on any one, if not all, these points, will be gratefully received and appreciated by me, and the same will soon be published both in English and Japanese languages, for the information of the Japanese Government and people.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
Arinori Mori, Charge d'Affaires, etc.

PEN AND SCISSORS.

On the Upper Sacramento River, says the Yolo (Cal.) Democrat of March 2, a novel business has for a number of years been conducted by Captain George W. Case, which partakes somewhat of the romantic style of the border traders of early times, with this difference: That a well-appointed steamer supplies the place of a primitive canoe, and the customers, instead of being the redskins of the forest, are well-to-do families settled upon and owning ranches along the banks of the Sacramento River. Captain Case commenced trading between Sacramento and a point a few miles above Colusa about eight years ago, by taking a small barge-load of goods as high up the river as he wished to go, paying a steamer to tow him up, and then dropping down with the current from house to house, to do his trading, supplying the settlers with whatever goods they wanted and taking in exchange all kinds of produce, especially butter, eggs, hides and peltries—anything that could be converted into cash and then reconverted into more goods for another trip. Some four years ago Captain Case built a small steamer, at a cost of $6,000, and fitted her up for the trade, which he had found so profitable, and to enable him to keep up with his increasing business. The floating store was supplied with an assorted cargo of goods worth from $5,000 to $6,000, and with the assistance of a pilot and an engineer, round trips have been made about once in two weeks ever since.

A man named Henry Taylor, says the Fresno (Cal.) Expositor of February 28, was found drowned in Fish Slough, near Firebaugh's Ferry, on the San Joaquin River, a few days since. He had been missing for several days. The discovery of his whereabouts is somewhat singular. Some parties discovered a calf fastened with a lariat around its neck, feeding on the bank of the slough, the rope extending into the water. Further search disclosed that the rope was attached to the "horn" of a saddle, which was securely girthed to a drowned horse. On examining the horse it was found to be Taylor's. Search was made for his body, and it was found near the horse. It is supposed that he lassoed the calf, and was attempting to lead the calf across the slough, when his horse stuck in the mud; he got off his horse, but was drowned before he could get ashore.

In Petaluma, Cal., March 2, a man named Peter Dunn was brought up for trial on an alleged assault and battery. The night before, in the bar-room of the New York Hotel, he committed an unjustifiable assault upon Albert Fell. For this offense he was sentenced to pay a fine of $30 or imprisonment in the County Jail for fifteen days. The low state of his finances compelled him to accept the latter alternative. Toward evening a warrant was sworn out for his arrest on a charge of attempt to commit a rape upon the person of a little girl between thirteen and fourteen years of age. He was taken before Justice Cavanaugh and bound over in the sum of $500 to appear before the Grand Jury, or in default of bail to go to the County Jail.

The man mentioned yesterday, says the Salt Lake News of March 2, as having been arrested for robbing another man at the depot, was held in $500 to appear before the District Court. His name is James Langley. It appears that he entered a car and asked a man named Luther M. Hammond, who was partially intoxicated, if he would change a ten dollar bill. Hammond took out his pocketbook for the purpose of complying, when Langley snatched it from him and made off. The alarm was given, however, and the thief was caught and arrested by Mr. E. Cox. The pocketbook contained $156 10.

The Reese River Reveille of March 4 says: Twenty-seven and a half tons of second-class ore from the Monitor mine at Belmont worked last week at the Manhattan mill, yielded at the rate of $571 74 per ton, and ten and a half tons of first-class ore at the rate of $609 47 per ton. Since the 1st of last June there has been worked from that mine two hundred and forty tons and fifty pounds of rock which averaged $503 per ton, the gross yield of which amounts to $120,732 50. How is that for high?

George Vincent, administrator of the estate of Anna Vincent, has commenced suit against the Central Pacific Railroad Company at Stockton, to recover $25,000 damages for carelessness on the part of defendant by which deceased lost her life. The complaint alleges that a nail projected from the platform on which the clothing of deceased caught as she was about to alight, causing her to be precipitated forward on her face and abdomen, inflicting injuries which caused her death.

A medical gentleman of this city, says the San Diego (Cal.) Union, has at his office a rattlesnake captured by him nearly eight months since. The snake is quite a large one, having eleven rattles, which it makes a lively noise with on the slightest provocation. Since the time of its capture nothing has been fed to it. Despite its long fast it is quite healthy, and moves around with as much life and vigor in its cage as if it had been living on the best of snake diet regularly.

George Hiett, a highly respected citizen of Salt Point, and his little son, says the Santa Rosa (Cal.) Democrat of March 2, were engaged in driving pickets. The boy was standing on a high bench, with a maul in his hand, and as he struck the last blow his father stooped down to take up another picket, the maul slipped off the handle, striking the father on the back of the head. From the effects of this injury he died on the 25th of February.

The man whose duty it is to kill and prepare the fowls for the table of the Horton House, San Diego, Cal., lately, discovered in the craw of one of the hens dressed by him a chispa of coarse placer gold, which weighed fully five pennyweights. The chicken came from some ranch in the Sweetwater Valley.

At Vallejo, March 2, Dr. Donnelly, assisted by Dr. Burbank, in charge of Mare Island, removed the entire right breast of Mrs. Sanford, a lady from Contra Costa. The operation was rendered necessary by the formation of two tumors of a cancerous nature on the breast. The patient is doing well.

William H. Steiner, a soldier lately discharged at Camp Gaston, died suddenly recently at Eureka, Cal. Two men, named Buck and Rapp, have been held to answer before the Grand Jury, there being some suspicious circumstances attending Steiner's death.

The assignee's sale in bankruptcy of the Kearsarge mine, is advertised to take place at auction in San Francisco, on the 25th of the present month. Mr. Holden, the assignee, expresses a strong desire to realize as high a price as possible for the property.

The California Assembly has passed a bill requiring the plaintiffs in libel suits to file a bond in the sum of $500 for costs of suit in case the verdict is against him and in favor of the newspaper.

The cattle around Petaluma, Cal., are suffering for food, the cold and wet weather keeping the grass back.

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA,

For Purifying the Blood.

A medicine that cures is a real public blessing AYER'S SARSAPARILLA makes positive cure of a series of complaints, which are always afflicting and too often fatal. It purifies the blood, purges out the lurking humors in the system, which undermine health and settle into troublesome disorders. Eruptions of the skin are the appearance on the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ, or organs, whose action they derange and whose substance they disease and destroy. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood. When they are gone, the disorders they produce disappear, such as Ulcerations of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys, Lungs, Eruptions and Eruptive Diseases of the Skin, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose of Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Pain in the Bones, Side and Head, Female Weakness, Sterility, Lucorrhea arising from internal ulceration and uterine disease, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Emaciation and General Debility. With their departure health returns.

The Board adjourned till to-morrow—Saturday.

THE DIAMOND DRILL.—Considering the immense amount of tunneling that is being done along the Comstock range, it is not a little strange that the diamond drill has never been tested by any of our mining companies. A month or two ago there was talk of introducing one of the drills into the Yellow Jacket mine, but since that time we have heard nothing further of the project. The drill appears to be working satisfactorily in California wherever it has been tested. The Nevada Transcript of March 2, has the following in regard to a drill which is at work in that vicinity:

W. W. Nichols & Co. are running a bed rock tunnel to open the channel at Kennebec Hill, near Columbia Hill. The rock is very hard, and they recently put in one of LeShon's diamond drills to be run by a hurdy-gurdy wheel. The machine has two drills, and has been at work several days, giving the best satisfaction. Some idea may be formed of work by a comparison with what was accomplished in the same tunnel before. Four men run two feet three inches on the face of the tunnel in twelve working days with two shifts. The diamond drill ran three days with four hands, and made two feet per day on the face of the tunnel. On Wednesday last the machine with two drills made six holes in eight hours, making in the aggregate twenty-four inches of holes. The machine employs as many men, but it does its work much faster, so that the tunnel will be run and the gravel opened sooner.

Here the drill would be driven by a compressed air engine instead of a hurdy-gurdy (water) wheel, and a great advantage would be that a large amount of pure air would be forced into the mine and set free at the face of the drift, just where it would be most needed. The sudden expansion of the air upon leaving the engine, produces such intense cold that ice is often formed upon the machinery.

DANEY MINE.—In regard to the Daney mine, the Gold Hill News of last evening has the following: "At the late annual election of the Daney Mining Company, we are pleased to observe that good judgment was exhibited in retaining T. J. McClelland as Superintendent. The revenue of the company for the past year has been $68,000, contributed by stockholders. The assessment now in process of collection will clear off all debts except about $3,000. The company own a mill, and report encouraging prospects for soon finding pay ore at the mine."

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.—On Tuesday the matter of the Cole Silver Mining Company against the Virginia and Gold Hill Water Company et als., was argued On Wednesday the cause of the Union Mill and Mining Company, complainant, vs. Peter Lightle, defendant, was argued; Ellis and Williams for complaint, and Mesick and Clarke for defendant. This is one of the cases of the Carson Valley ranchers, and is submitted for the purpose of settling the law upon all, or nearly all, the important points involved in the water right cases.

PERSONAL.—William T. Warren, an old Virginian, who has been trying to make himself believe that he was happy in the cow counties of California for two years past, has given it up as a bad job and is now on the Comstock range, to roam no more, as he says. He will resume wagon making at his old shop on North C street and let others go down into the valleys to chase the new-laid egg and smell the breath of the "milky mothers" of the bovine herd.

STOCKS were rather weak yesterday, and in consequence a striking array of elongated visages was to be seen about the various bulletin boards. Caledonia was an exception to the general rule, as to the astonishment of all it went up a dollar or two per share. This instead of ameliorating the prevailing acerbity appeared to add bitterness, and seeing no good reason for its going up at the present time, the multitude damned it on general principles.

YOUNG HYENAS.—We hear much complaint of a set of Arabs who are in the habit of making raids on the City Cemetery and ransacking the graves, pulling up and carrying away flowers, shrubbery and everything else of the least value left about any of the tombs. The police should keep an eye open in the direction of the cemetery and arrest the first plunderer they may find despoiling the graves.

JUDGE YOUNG'S] COURT.—The following criminal cases were disposed of in this Court yesterday: L. P. Penn, arrested by officer Enders for being drunk; fined $10. Anna Cooper, arrested by officer Coryell for threats against life; placed under bonds of $500 to keep the peace for six months. All other criminal cases were continued until this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

RHODE ISLAND MILL.—The News of last evening says: "This old and ever efficient rock-grinding and bullion-producing institution, after about five weeks' rest for overhauling machinery and general recuperation, started up again last Friday, and is doing a regular land office business under the superintendence of Uncle John Hunt, in the way of reducing Crown Point ore."

ILLINOIS is excited over a grand pigeon-shooting match for $500 a side. Sunday before last we had a match in this place for the same amount, and only about twenty persons became sufficiently excited to walk out to the base ball ground to see it.

INFORMATION WANTED.—Morgan Y. Hart, Mishawaka, St. Joseph county, Indiana, wishes to learn the present whereabouts of his brother, Jacob L. Hart, who is supposed to be somewhere in this State.

GONE BELOW.—J. Morris, of the dry goods firm of Morris & Nathan, left yesterday afternoon for San Francisco, for the purpose of selecting a fine large stock of spring goods.

WANT EIGHT-HOUR SHIFTS.—We understand that the engineers employed in our leading mines complain that they find twelve-hour shifts too long and fatiguing. In the big mines, where there is a great amount of hoisting going on, they are kept so constantly on the qui vive that toward the end of their twelve hours they are pretty much worn out, both in body and mind. Men in whose hands are placed the lives of all working in the mine, should be kept in a condition to have at all times the clear and prompt use of all their powers, both mental and physical. That a man who is fagged out with long hours of watching should once in a long time mistake the tag on a swiftly ascending or descending cable, and jerk a cage up into the sheaves or send one below its destined station, is not to be wondered at; the only wonder is, that more accidents of the kind do not occur. It is said by those who have paid some attention to this matter, that accidents in shafts are much more frequent during the last than the first hours of the engineer's shift. This would show that no man should be kept standing in a position of such great responsibility after he is worn out and his sight dimmed by long and incessant watching. In mines where the cages are not constantly running, the twelve-hour shift is probably not too long, as there is time in which to rest the eyes and brain.

PIPER'S OPERA HOUSE—THE FEMALE MINSTRELS.—The Opera House was filled to overflowing last night on the occasion of the first appearance of the new minstrel troupe. Every seat was occupied, as was every inch of standing room both in the dress-circle and parquette; besides, every box in the house was sold. Mr. Piper informs us that the house was the largest ever drawn in this city by any troupe of the kind. The entertainment gave universal satisfaction. An astonishing variety of songs and dances and acts was given, and in such rapid succession that the stage never waited a moment during the evening. Each performer did his best to please, and this was not lost sight of by the audience, for if there is any one thing that "spunks" a Virginia audience, it is to have a performer "throw off" on them. We have only time for a hasty glance at the performance, but will say an excellent first part was given, in which were many good songs and jokes. The singing of the Stanleys was much admired and was deservedly applauded and encored; also that of Mlle. Lizzie and Fanny Herron. Dutch Leon, by Carlora, was a great hit, and the Highland fling has never been better danced here than it was last night by Miss Ida Engles. The dancing of Cogill and Cooper was excellent and was much applauded. In fact, it was the best melodeon show we have had here since the days of old Music Hall, and, provided they can "keep up their lick," the company will do. A fine bill is offered for to-night. For particulars, see distributed programmes.

PERSONAL.—We were agreeably surprised last night by a visit from our old friend Pat Holland, originator and senior proprietor of of the Ely Record, Pioche. The climate appears to agree with Pat, as he looks younger and handsomer by some years, than when he left the Comstock range. He has been in San Francisco purchasing material for a large job office, and represents Pioche as the most flourishing town in Eastern Nevada. He is publishing a very spicy and wide awake paper, and deserves the generous support which the people of Pioche are giving him. He leaves to-morrow for his home, which he is anxious to reach, as he has been absent since the 11th of last month. Pat is kept busy shaking hands with his old friends and telling them all about the wonders of Pioche.

PHOTOGRAPHS OF ALL KINDS.—By a notice under the head of "New To-day," it will be seen that Mr. J. C. Brewster, the well known photographer, has returned from his trip through the cities of the East, and is now established at Hurd's Gallery, No. 140 South C street. He will remain at Hurd's Gallery until Spring, when he will probably come down town and open a new gallery. In the meantime, he will take photographs and pictures of all kinds and in every style of the art. The pictures taken at Hurd's Gallery are warranted to be equal in correctness and finish, to any taken on the Pacific coast. Further particulars will be found in the advertisement referred to above.

DEATH OF AN OLD VIRGINIAN.—All old residents of this city will regret to learn of the death of F. H. H. Oldfield, a fine musician and a most kind-hearted and genial gentleman, who was long a resident of this city, and who during all the time he was here was a pianist at the Opera House and old Music Hall and at other similar places of amusement in this city. He was prompt-ness itself in his business, and made all with whom he came in contact his fast friends. We have never seen a man who had more patience than had Mr. Oldfield, with singers and other provoking people, with whom he had to do in his business. A host of old friends in this place will deeply regret his death, which occurred in San Francisco on the 2d instant.

MATINEE.—A grand matinee will be given at the Opera House to-morrow—Saturday—afternoon, for the special delectation of ladies, children and such persons who are unable to attend night performances. Nothing will be permitted to be said and sung on the occasion which can offend even the most fastidious. The company will do their best to amuse those who may favor them with their patronage, and hope to succeed.

SUTRO TUNNEL.—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Sutro Tunnel Company, for the election of Trustees, will take place on the 2d of next month, at the office of the company, No. 625 Montgomery street, San Francisco.

SAVAGE.—The ore body recently developed at the lowest level of the Savage mine, although not of a high grade of ore, is officially reported to be over thirty feet wide.

BUCKEYE ELECTION.—By a notice in another column it will be seen that the election of the Buckeye Mining Company will take place on the 29th instant.

JUDGE HILL'S COURT.—All the criminal cases in this Court yesterday were continued until this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

THERE are messages at the Western Union Telegraph office for Geo. Goodman and M. Stemler.

TAKING COLD.—If a cold settles on the outer covering of the lungs it becomes pneumonia, inflammation of the lungs, or lung fever, which in many cases carries the strongest man to his grave within a week. If a cold falls upon the inner covering of the lungs it is pleurisy, with its knife-like pains, and its slow, very slow recoveries. If a cold settles in the joints there is rheumatism in its various forms; inflammatory rheumatism, with its agonies of pain, and rheumatism of the heart, which in an instant sometimes snaps the cords of life with no friendly warning. It is of the utmost practical importance, then, in this wintry weather to know not so much how to cure a cold as how to avoid it. Colds always come from one cause, some part or the whole of the body being colder than natural for a time. If a man will keep his feet warm always and never allow himself to be chilled he will never take cold in a lifetime, and this can only be accomplished by due care in warm clothing and the avoidance of drafts and undue exposure. While multitudes of colds come from cold feet, perhaps the majority arise from persons cooling off too quickly after becoming a little warmer than is natural from exercise, or work, or from confinement to a warm apartment.—Woods' Household Magazine.

AN experimenting Detroit chemist took a piece of threadbare cotton cloth, smeared it with boiled linseed oil, and placed it in the centre of a chest filled with paper and rags. Although the room was not tight and the weather was cold, there was a smell of fire about the room in eight days. Unpacking it, the experimenter found the rag half charred. In April he made a similar experiment with a pair of painter's overalls, which he rolled up with pine shavings, and crowded in next to the roof-boards of a loft. In a week the smell of smoke alarmed a workman in the next room, and the overalls were found to be on fire. And during the hottest weather a handful of old cotton rags, not smeared with oil, became hot enough, when hung up in a tin box in the sun, to light matches which he had placed among them.

AN aurora, the first in thirty-seven years, sent all the Havanese to church in fright the other evening.

IT is proposed to substitute a vast mirror for the drop-curtain at the Paris Grand Opera House.

SEVENTEEN adjoining farms in Rollingsford, N. H., are owned by persons related to each other.

LONDON will have Nilsson, Titiens, Marimon, Trebelli-Bettini, Alboni and Capoul next season.

MISCELLANEOUS INTELLIGENCE.

WASHINGTON, March 6.

General R. W. Healy, United States Marshal at Montgomery, Alabama, has applied to Attorney General Williams for troops to aid him in arresting the parties indicted at the last term of the District Court held at Montgomery for Kuklux outrages. The Attorney General recommended to the Secretary of War the necessity for troops, and they will be furnished.

RICHMOND, Va., March 6.

Alex. Massely, editor of the Whig, and J. C. Southall, editor of the Enquirer, were arrested this morning to prevent an anticipated hostile meeting, and both held under bonds to keep the peace.

WASHINGTON, March 6.

The Senate Select Committee on the Sale of Arms was organized to-day and will to-morrow proceed with the examination of Secretary Belknap and General Dyer, Chief of the Ordnance Bureau. Remington and others will be examined. The committee express their determination to make a full and thorough investigation.

The Senate to-day confirmed the nomination of Wilburn Sanders, District Attorney for Montana; J. M. Costello, Receiver of Public Moneys at Fairplay, Colorado.

BOSTON, March 6.

Commander W. H. Davis, of the United States navy, died at the United States General Hospital yesterday. He belonged on the Ohio. He entered the navy in May, 1850, and was reappointed Commander on April 27, 1869.

CINCINNATI, March 6.

Six steamers, most of them partly loaded, were burned at the landing at half past 12 to-night. The loss cannot be definitely ascertained, but is probably from $200,000 to $250,000.

WASHINGTON, March 6.

In the examination of General Babcock Senator Bayard showed the witness the following letter, which Babcock recognized as having been written by him:

"EXECUTIVE MANSION,
"WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 10, 1869.

"My Dear Lindsay: Your letter reached me to-day. It is just as I expected. I sent it simply to show you how people presume on others. By the same mail I received the inclosed. I do not intend to answer such an assumption; or, if at all, in a short, curt note. You need have no fears of their imposing on us. I shall be pleased to do whatever I can for your friends, when I know what you want. I reciprocate your kindness to me. I am alone in my glory. General Porter will be back to-morrow. Remember me kindly to Lect, Parker and the gentlemen in your house. Hoping to hear from you when I can be of any service, I am yours, truly, O. E. BABCOCK.

"To J. P. LINDSAY."

Babcock, in reply to a question, said he did not know that Lindsay was the private secretary of Collector Grinnell at the time the above letter was written, but supposed he was. He was further asked whether he knew any proposition from Leet to Lindsay relative to a speculation in San Domingo, and replied in the negative. Babcock was interrogated at considerable length in regard to San Domingo matters, but very little of interest was elicited.

NEW YORK, March 7.

Controller Green, when questioned yesterday concerning a probable deficit of $7,000,000 or $8,000,000 in taxation to cover the expenses of the city, favored additional taxes rather than an increase of debt. He also expressed the opinion that the estimates for the ensuing year, made by the Heads of Departments, were far in excess of the sum which might be required by rigid economy and prudence.

WASHINGTON, March 7.

It was recently stated that the number of cases prepared by the Department of Justice against several ex-Members of Congress and Government officials for receiving money for prosecuting claims against the Government had been dropped, the Statute of Limitations barring them. A number of similar cases are, however, within the statute, and the money having been paid outside of the District, the information has been sent to District Attorneys in the several States where the offenses were alleged to have been committed, with instructions to bring the parties to trial.

The New Hampshire clerks in the Departments have received ten days leave of absence to vote at the State election.

NASHUA, N. H., March 7.

The carpet and yarn mill of the Wilton Manufacturing Company of Wilton, was burned yesterday. Loss. $75,000; partly insured.

NEW YORK, March 7.

The friends of the Erie Classification Repeal bill object strongly to the proposed compromise offered in committee and discussed yesterday. They denounce it as the greatest fraud of the session, and say its provisions are such as to make perpetual the rule of Gould and his confederates. While repealing the Classification Act, it leaves the directors in power until the expiration of their term.

A report made to the Committee of Seventy last night shows that since December, 1867, $12,153,877 have been assessed on the city for extending, opening and widening the streets, of which $1,825,427 was for costs and charges in the superintendence of the work. This is in addition to the further large amounts assessed on the property holders.

Greeley, in to-day's Tribune, says the following is his note declining to have his name affixed to the call for the Philadelphia Convention:

"Friend Chandler: Please not to attach my name to a call for a National Convention. I stayed away from your meeting on purpose to keep a position of independence. If we have trustworthy assurance of reform from the White House, all right; but I am not inclined to help our Leets and Stockings to another half million of plunder.

"Yours, HORACE GREELEY.

"To Hon. Wm. E. Chandler."

A Wilmington (N. C.) dispatch says it is not known whether the reports of the death of Henry Berry Lowry, the notorious swamp outlaw, are unfounded. Additional reports are current that he was murdered by his brother or drowned.

At a meeting of the Democratic Reformers, last night, the Committee on Organization strongly urged the pending charter election. The speakers denounced the Tammany oligarchy, and advocated a stringent election law, and the selection of competent men of the city for officers.

A rumor was current yesterday that goods for the Chicago sufferers have been lost or stolen through the General Order stores of the Custom-house in this city. The Tribune says it is not known whether the goods were lost or stolen. Ex Governor Bross of Illinois was in the city a few days ago to investigate the matter, but his inquiries established nothing. Special Agent Howe, upon investigation, reported that he receipted for the invoices, but not for the goods; but it is uncertain whether the Custom-house officials have anything to do with the matter.

A meeting of the members of the petroleum refinery trade was held yesterday for consultation in reference to a reported project to monopolize the business, on the part of the Southern Improvement Company. A committee was appointed to investigate the subject and make a report thereon.

The subject of the minority representation, as presented in the charter of the Committee of Seventy, which is now pending in the Legislature, is receiving much attention from the politicians of both parties here. The proposed plan for cumulative voting generally meets with disfavor from the Reform Democracy, who say that its adoption will demonstrate the futility of the Committee of Seventy's charter, and predict its repeal hereafter.

The Tribune this morning in printing a communication from Mayor Medill of Chicago, with whom the main system of minority representation in Illinois originated, commends his views to the legislators at Albany.

It is stated that the Naval Court-martial found Captain Stevens, of the frigate Guerriere, guilty of neglect of duty and sentenced him to dismissal from the service.

CONGRESSIONAL.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, March 6.

Morrill of Vermont had a document read, signed by Giles W. Smith, which is being sent to all the leading railroad men of the country, urging them to unite in demanding fifty per cent. advance for carrying the mails on their roads without reference to their existing contracts. It shows that Vanderbilt, Tom Scott and Jay Gould had agreed to the plan. Morrill said he hoped an explanation of this matter would be made.

Morrill said Smith, the signer of the circular, was formerly a distinguished officer in the army and afterwards an officer of the Postoffice Department, and that he appeared to have resigned to go into this business. He (Morrill) hoped that the gentlemen charged with having entered into this arrangement would be able to explain the matter.

Cameron said he was confident that the statements of the circular, so far as they related to Thos. A. Scott, were false in every particular, because Scott had too much sense and too much integrity to enter into any such combination. The railroads wished to have the rates increased, and the author had probably attempted to take advantage of the report to make money for himself.

Wilson said that one of the greatest evils in this nation was the practice of persons who have been in Congress or in Departments, afterwards setting up in Washington as shysters and using the knowledge acquired in public life to cheat the Government, and that the abolition of this evil would be one of the most necessary and important reforms.

Cameron moved to lay the circular on the table, which was agreed to.

Bayard gave notice that at an early day he would move to take up his resolution asking the President to transmit the instructions given to the United States District Attorney in New York in relation to the prosecution of persons who have given gratuities to the Custom-house officials.

Conkling said he had no objection whatever to its adoption. His only desire was to show that the instructions given to the District Attorney were given in obedience to the imperative mandate of the statute, and that their form was determined by statute.

Logan called up the bill to authorize the appointment of certain officers in the Quartermaster's Department.

On motion of Thurman it was amended so as to apply also to the Inspector General's Department and passed.

The Senate resumed consideration of the Legislative Appropriation bill.

The pending amendment to increase the salary of the supervising architect of the Treasury to $5,000 was rejected.

An amendment to give the Land Office forty additional clerks of class one was adopted.

Sawyer, from the Committee on Education and Labor, reported an amendment increasing the appropriation for the Bureau of Education from $29,500 to $36,950.

Carpenter opposed the amendment, declaring his belief that neither the Bureau of Education or the Bureau of Agriculture had any warrant under the Constitution.

Thurman also opposed the amendment, and commented on the centralizing tendencies of the Government as evinced by the creation of illegal bureaus, and in efforts to control the educational and agricultural interests of the county through Federal officers.

It was finally rejected—yeas, 17; nays, 22.

Frelinghuysen offered an amendment increasing the salaries in the Agricultural Department. Lost—yeas, 11; nays, 25.

To the item appropriating $50,000 to enable the President to carry out the Civil Service Reform, Frelinghuysen offered an amendment authorizing pay to such members of the Civil Service Commission as are employed in the service of the United States. He said that three members of the commission were also employes of Departments, and that this amendment was designed to enable them to receive pay for their extra service on the commission.

Sherman thought that the best commentary on Civil Service Reform we had had yet. [Laughter.]

Carpenter coincided with Sherman.

The amendment was declared out of order.

Logan gave notice that when the bill should get out of committee and before the Senate, he would move to strike out the appropriation of $50,000, and insert a provision repealing the law under which the Civil Service Reform Commission had been created. He was as much in favor of reforming the civil service as anybody, but not in this way. In fact, the reform as organized now, was a humbug, as was illustrated by the appointment recently of one the Civil Service Commissioners to ano her office without undergoing examination according to the rules drawn up by the commission.

The amendment by Sumner, appropriating $5,000 to enable the Bureau of Education to prepare an account of the common schools of the United States, in compliance with the request of the Government of Japan, was opposed by Cole as unnecessary, as there were ready all the books and reports from which all the necessary information could be obtained, and it was rejected.

Other amendments were offered and rejected, and the bill was then reported to the Senate.

The Senate then went into Executive Session and soon after adjourned.

House.

After the reception ceremonies several memorials were received.

The bill granting half of Goat Island, in the harbor of San Francisco, to the Central Pacific Railroad Company came up.

Sargent defended the arrangement between the Pacific Mail Steamship Company and the overland railroads, whereby the former refused to carry China freights, and also assailed the Panama Railroad Company, which sat at the waist of the Isthmus throttling commerce, and now comes to Congress, with its antique notions and miserable history of exactions, to try to force traffic by their route. Incidentally, Sargent sustained the bill granting to the Central Pacific Railroad Company half of Goat Island. He denied that the article read yesterday from the Alta against it expressed the views of the people of San Francisco, and referred to the Evening Bulletin as the great commercial paper of the Pacific coast, and said it advocated the measure.

Strong referred to the enormous subsidies granted to the Pacific Railroad Company, from which the men who built the road had put forty millions clear into their pockets. After building the road Congress had dealt liberally with these railroads and loaded them down with lands and bonds, and now they come for additional subsidy. He said that the report of the army engineers showed that no part of the island can be safely parted with.

Kellogg of Connecticut favored the bill. He said the island was valueless except for defensive purposes, and that portion of it on which were the Government fortifications was the portion which the railroad company did not want. The bill was for the interest of commerce rather than for the interest of the railroad company.

Butler of Massachusetts, wished to offer an amendment giving claimants to any portion of the island occupied, the right to bring suit against the company.

Bingham objected.

Mercur advocated the bill. He looked on it as being in the interest of the Government's commerce.

Various amendments were proposed and ordered printed, and the bill went over until to-morrow. The House then went into Committee of the Whole on the Deficiency Appropriation bill.

A long discussion of a personal and political character, including a review of the records of the two political parties, with suggestions as to the future policy of each and the respective plans for the ensuing Presidential campaign ensued.

At the conclusion, Dawes offered an amendment for the payment of laborers, workmen and mechanics, in the Government employment, at the rate of a full day's wages for eight hours' work.

After a long discussion on the labor question, Farnsworth offered a proviso to Mr. Dawes' amendment, that laboring men in the United States who work ten hours shall not be taxed to make up the deficiency for those who only work eight hours. [Laughter.] Agreed to.

Dawes' amendment as thus amended was rejected.

Butler of Massachusetts, renewed Dawes' proposition in a different form, appropriating $450,000 for this purpose. This was also rejected—41 to 81.

The committee rose and reported the bill back to the House, and without voting on it the House adjourned.

BERLIN, March 6.

The Upper House of the Diet has under consideration a School Inspection bill. During the debate to-day Bismarck made a significant speech, expressive of a fear of the disloyal influences of the Catholic clergy, and insisted on a clause providing for the introduction of the German language into the Polish schools. He assured the conservative members of the Diet that the Government did not intend to break with their party, but it would not submit to pressure.

The weather is warm and cloudy, with wind south and threatening rain.

Stocks are rather inactive on the street, though a little firmer than yesterday.

Charles Cordova, an aristocratic-looking youth, was sent up for trial to-day on a charge of grand larceny in stealing a letter-carrier's horse and saddle on the street. Such thefts are of almost daily occurrence in this city, a particular class of thieves making a specialty of the business.

J. A. Coolidge, of the Merchants' Exchange, is appointed to examine the books of the different county officers to see if there are any irregularities or overcharges by the Mayor. He has commenced his work.

SECOND DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7.

A dispatch to Postmaster Stone indicates that the overland mail will reach here to-morrow night.

The weather is cool, cloudy and foggy, with light wind from the northwest.

Stocks very quiet, the market being apparently at the stage known among nautical men as slack water. A change is looked for very soon.

The "Chicken" indignantly denies that he stated in the presence of the Sheriff's deputies, after sentence yesterday, that it was a damned hard case to be hanged for killing a bloody Dutchman and getting nothing at that. On the other hand, the Sheriff's deputies assert positively that he did say so.

At a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, held this afternoon, a memorial and series of resolutions were presented, urging Congress to reject the proposition to grant Goat Island to the Central Pacific Railroad Company, on the ground that it would work incalculable injury to the commerce of San Francisco, and tend to the destruction of the harbor by interfering with the ebb and flow of the tides in the bay, and causing the shoaling of water on the bar, and for other reasons. The resolutions were debated, and finally accepted by a unanimous vote. The memorial was also adopted, and the Secretary directed to forward the substance by telegraph to our delegation in Congress and to Vice President Colfax, and to take other measures to bring the matter at once to the attention of the President and both houses of Congress. Much feeling was displayed, and complete unanimity prevailed.

Among the parties in jail awaiting trial, is a young man named Onetares, who is indicted for three burglaries. At the time of the commission of the burglaries he was employed as a reporter on a "live" morning paper, and actually wrote up the accounts of his own burglaries for the paper with which he was connected, in sensation style. His "pal" pleaded guilty yesterday to an indictment for burglarizing the room of the foreman of the office in which he worked.

The movement in stocks is largely tending again toward Eastern Nevada mines. At the afternoon Board there were 1,550 shares of Eureka Consolidated, 1,110 of Meadow Valley, and 2,535 of Excelsior sold. The total sales for the day foot up 29,255 shares. Contrary to the usual rule the sales at the afternoon Board exceed those of the morning.

The case of S. M. Dunlap, who sued the Southern Pacific Railroad for $50,000 damages for breaking his shoulder by jumping off a car at Laurel Station last year, was decided in the Fourth District Court to-day. Judge Morrison decided that he had no right to jump off the cars while they were in motion, and that he, being in fault, was not entitled to damages.

The trial of Mat Harrington, the boy indicted for murdering the China cigar-maker on Fourth street by striking him over the head with a club, will commence to-morrow in the Twelfth District Court.

Below is an extended report of the Chamber of Commerce meeting. The resolutions were opposed by Captain Roberts on account of their form. He wanted to have them more expressive.

Mr. De Fremery and General Cobb advocated the resolutions.

James Otis said that it was no mere sectional question, but a matter of vital interest to the whole community. He said that the company had already secured large concessions in Mission Bay, and had not made any of the improvements promised. The company had then toyed with Oakland and secured her water front, which it still holds, without keeping a single promise, and it is now proposed to throw both and build up a commercial metropolis of its own, independent of either. He feared that it would soon be impossible for any other company to raise the right of way into San Francisco.

James Linforth spoke strongly in a similar strain, and wanted a public meeting called to oppose the measure and avert the danger.

Mr. Forbes also spoke to the same effect.

Captain Roberts wanted the resolutions amended so as to set forth that the company had already received a grant from the State of sixty acres in the harbor of San Francisco for a terminus, and that the grant of the island was only sought to enable the company to secure a terminus at less expense and give it supreme control of the trade of the coast.

Mr. Jay accepted the amendment and strongly advocated the immediate passage of the resolution. He was in favor of encouraging the building of canals and protecting the city of San Francisco. He was in favor of railroads, and wanted to see them come here, but did not want them to own us out-and-out. His remarks were loudly applauded.

Mr. Rankin urged the immediate passage of the resolutions, as there was no time to be lost.

Mr. Wise spoke strongly against the whole subsidy system, and wanted the resolutions passed unanimously.

They were so passed with applause.

The memorial was then amended as suggested by Captain Roberts, and adopted in the same manner.

Conlin's second horse, engaged in the runaway yesterday, by which two men were so severely injured, was shot to-day, being rendered worthless. Conlin loses $2,400 by the runaway. The injured men are both recovering.

The "Chicken" to-day boasted to a reporter that they would never hang him. He appears to have recovered all his self-command, which was lost yesterday, and is as brutally coarse and profane in his remarks as ever.

A German, recently arrived from the East, shot himself through the breast with a pistol and died, as is supposed, instantly at his room in the Alaska Hotel on Pacific street. The report of the pistol was not heard by others in the house, and he was dead when found. He only arrived here two days since.

The attendance was large and betting lively at the races at Agricultural Park today. In the pacing race between Flora and Billy Dooley, to harness, mile heats, three in five, Flora won the first, second and fourth heats. Time—2:50¼, 2:51¼, 2:45 and 2:51¼. The trotting race between George Jefferson and Mose, in harness, three in five, to rule, was closely contested and, not being finished when night set in, was postponed until 12 o'clock to-morrow. Six heats were trotted. Mose won the first and Jeff the second and third. The fifth was declared no heat on account of a collision between Jeff and Mose and the running of Jeff. The sixth heat was won by Jeff. Time—2:52, 2:49¼, 2:49¼, 2:51, 2:52 and 2:47¼.

MARCH.

The cock is crowing,
The stream is flowing,
The small birds twitter,
The lake doth glitter,
The green field sleeps in the sun;
The oldest and youngest
Are at work with the strongest;
The cattle are grazing,
Their heads never raising;
There are forty feeding like one!

Like an army defeated,
The snow hath retreated,
And now doth fare ill
On the top of the bare hill;
The plowboy is whooping—anon—anon!
There's joy on the mountains;
There's life in the fountains;
Small clouds are sailing,
Blue sky prevailing;
The rain is over and gone.

"Don't you want an office? I can control any number of votes." "I have no political aspirations," replied the lawyer. "But ain't there some man you want to have licked?" rejoined the client. The poor lawyer has not yet recovered from this overpowering exhibition of gratitude.

SOME unknown hand, it seems, placed on the tomb of Charles Dickens, in Westminster Abbey, on Christmas, a wreath of mistletoe and laurel. That was a fitting tribute to the memory of the great novelist. Laurel, symbolic of fame; holly and mistletoe, in memory of the author of the "Christmas Carol." At that dreary time of the year called the festive season, and at this dreary time of the year, too, no writer has ever contributed more to the happiness of our firesides than has the immortal author whose mortal remains "lie silently and coldly in the grave" in the venerable abbey.

THERE are six Americans in the Canadian Parliament—Messrs. J. M. Currier, Aquilla Walsh, Joseph Rymal, John H. Pope, J. Y. Bown and L. H. Holton. Mr. Currier represents the Capital of Canada. A CONNECTICUT clergyman recently announced from the pulpit that he had heard a man say that he had read the Bible through in sixty hours. Determined to ascertain if the individual told the truth, he set about it himself, and read the whole of it aloud to his wife in fifty-nine hours and something over thirty minutes. He read sometimes an hour and sometimes two hours a day, keeping the exact time, with the result indicated.

THE observance of Sunday is so strict in England that all the telegraph offices are closed, meteorological reports and predictions are not forwarded on that day, and, as a consequence, two of the most serious storms of last year were not signaled to the coast. An English paper suggests the employment of Jews to attend to the telegraph system on Sundays.

A WEALTHY and eccentric New Yorker has a curious collection of instruments with which suicides have been committed. Pistols, daggers, razors, and bottles that contained poison, figure in the collection, for which the owner thinks he will have to provide increased accommodation if the present mania for self-murder continues.

THE conversation in a Wisconsin store—Polite Clerk—Can I show you anything else, to-day? Lugubrious Customer—No, I reckon not. I lost two horses and my wife, last Fall, and I feel putty poor. Good span of horses, too.

AN English cynic argues that politeness is decaying, because men in traveling have the exclusive right to the smoking carriages. What hinders him from inviting the women in to take a smoke?

A CHEERFUL giver put the following note in a pocket of a pair of pantaloons sent to the Michigan sufferers. "There, take 'em, d——n you—last pair I've got. Don't get burnt out again."

A NEW YORK paper talks about a green spot in the great Sahara of damnation. Some speculator will soon propose a railroad through it and ask for a grant of public land.

SWEET'S
CHEMICAL FLUID,
For CLEANSING THE SCALES FROM BOILERS AND TUBES.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

HAVING TRIED THE CHEMICAL FLUID MANUFACTURED AND SOLD BY A. CURRY, IN ONE OF THE LOCOMOTIVES OF THE VIRGINIA AND TRUCKEE RAILROAD COMPANY, I do hereby certify that it does the work of removing the scales most effectually, and is the best article I have ever tried. I have also made a thorough test in regard to its injuring iron, brass, or other metals. At the request of Mr. Curry, I took five gallons of the Fluid, put it in a small boiler, into which I put a turned bolt with nut and thread-cut, also a piece of brass, boiling the whole for three weeks, night and day. After boiling away all the Fluid, I washed the articles and found all sound, and as good as when put into the Fluid. I am satisfied that it will not injure Boilers or Tubes, and most cheerfully recommend it to all persons using Steam Boilers, for cleaning them and preventing scales. J. W. BOWKER, M. M.,
V. and T. R. R.

I hereby appoint

LEGAL NOTICES.

DISTRICT COURT, FIRST JUdicial District, Storey County, Nevada.—In the Matter of the Estate of GEORGE DUTTENHOFFER, deceased.

It appearing to the Judge of this Court by the petition presented and filed by Lewis Duttenhoffer, the Administrator of said Estate, and Charles Baker, surviving partner of said deceased, praying for an order to sell real estate and personal property, that it is necessary to sell the whole of the interest of said deceased in the real and personal property of said partnership, to pay and discharge the debts and liabilities of said partnership:

It is therefore ordered by the Judge of said Court that all persons interested in said Estate appear before the said District Court, at the Court-house, on B street, in the city of Virginia, county of Storey, on SATURDAY, the 30th day of March, A. D. 1872, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, to show cause why an order should not be granted to the said Administrator to sell the said real and personal estate of said deceased.

And it is further ordered that a copy of this order be published at least four successive weeks in the DAILY TERRITORIAL ENTERPRISE, a newspaper printed and published in said city and county.

RICHARD RISING, District Judge.
[SEAL.] Attest: GEO. H. DANA, Clerk.
